Invitation

Research paves way for the conception and dissemination of knowledge. It is essential to gain an understanding of how to identify a research problem and design a valid research project, which will generate new concepts and methodologies. Research methodology refers to the methods and techniques used to effectively portray the research. The Internal Quality Assurance Cell of St. Thomas College, Palai is hosting a three-day Workshop on “Recent Trends in Research Methodology” under the auspices of the Research Monitoring Cell of the College in collaboration with Mahatma Gandhi University, Kottayam. The programme proposes to enhance the ability of the participants to undertake independent research diligently. The participants will be able to acquire hands-on training in the usage of several open source tools that can assist them in their research endeavours. All researchers are cordially invited to the programme.

Rev. Dr. James John
Principal
